

HUNDREDS OF LIVES LOST.

Thrilling Stories Told by Some of the Survivors of the Flood in Virginia—People Fought Desperately for Their Lives—

Property for Miles in the Valley Completely Destroyed.

RICHMOND, Va., June 24.—Conflicting reports received here place the loss of life in the region of the flood at from 200 to 300. It is pretty certain that Keystone has been virtually washed out, but the loss of life there probably is over-estimated.

The Norfolk and Western people know nothing except that they have suffered heavy damages to tracks.

The track of the Chesapeake and Ohio near Keystone is also heavily damaged and trains are tied up. There has been a tremendous flood at Charleston, W. Va. Several children were drowned near Taxwell.

Great Damage Done.

ROANOKE, Va., June 24.—When the passenger train from the west over the Norfolk & Western Railroad arrived this morning there were many people at the station who had waited anxiously all night for the belated news carrier from the devastated coal fields of West Virginia. Among those on this train who had been in the storm were a prominent business man of Roanoke, several railroad men and a woman and two children. They came direct to Roanoke from Vivian and were compelled to walk 11 miles to Ennis, where they were enabled to get a train for this city. These people feel confident that not more than 100 people have lost their lives.

Fought For Life.

A railroad man who has been working at Vivian told the Associated Press correspondent that the rain started last Wednesday night and shortly after midnight the heavens seemed to open and pour forth great volumes of water. When the cloud burst over the town of Vivian there was a passenger train standing in the railroad yards. About forty passengers, of whom 3 were women, were in the cars. The water rose rapidly and soon was over the trucks of the cars. Houses and barns were being washed about before the eyes of the frightened passengers.

Ropes to Passengers.

Ropes were thrown to the cars and the male passengers caught them and waded through the water, waist deep, to places of safety. The ladies were too much frightened to get into the water and were placed on the tender of the engine, where they were safe. Other portions of the railroad yards were washed out and a hundred box cars were wrecked. The house in which the section master at Vivian lived was washed away. A young son of the section master rode on driftwood for four miles and was then lodged in a tree, from which he was rescued. A colored section hand was drowned. The rain ceased falling about 9 o'clock Saturday morning. There has been no rain since and the streams are gradually falling.

Damage is $500,000.

ROANOKE, W. Va., June 24.—Norfolk and Western officials here say that owing to wires being down and no direct communication, they are unable to estimate the damage caused by the flood in the coal fields. They do not believe the damage to property will amount to $500,000, as at first reported. Estimates of 200 lives lost are now thought to be too great.

Arrangements for Relief.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 24.—Governor White is here making arrangements to get trains and provisions for the flood-stricken district along the Norfolk and Western Railroad. He says he fears the death list will exceed one thousand.

DEATH SUMMONS
MRS. LUX.After a Long Illness She Passes Away at Her Home in San Jose.

SAN JOSE, June 24.—Mrs. LUX, wife of Henry Lux, of Miller & Lux, who resides at the corner of Alameda and Jones streets, East San Jose, passed away last evening after a lingering illness. Death was due to cancer of the stomach, from which she has been an acute sufferer since last October.

Mrs. Lux was a venerable pioneer of this State, having emigrated to the Golden West from New York in 1856. For the past thirty-seven years she has resided in this city, and in her wide circle of friends was known as a true, noble woman, sweet in disposition, pure hearted and generous. Though in no way expected, her passing is a source of the deepest regret to her many friends, as it removes from this earth one whose highest purpose it was to make her life that of a true Christian woman.

Mrs. Lux was a native of New York State and was 65 years, 10 months and 22 days old at the time of her death. Her husband survives her.

FOUND GOLD IN NORTH OAKLAND.

The residents of Linden street between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-sixth streets, have been thrown into a fever of excitement over the discovery of gold quartz in an artesian well that has just been bored on the premises of S. A. Nauman, a dryman residing at 2714 Linden street.

One of the most remarkable features of the well is that when a depth of eleven feet was bored a strata of gravel that proved to be six feet thick was struck.

Considerable quartz was brought up and some of such a quality containing streaks of gold that an effort was made to keep the matter quiet.

OUT OF BUSINESS.

SANTA CRUZ, Province of Laguna, P. I., June 24.—Gen. Cailles surrendered today with 650 men and 600 rifles. He entered Santa Cruz to the music of native bands, which were drawn up in six lines in the church yard. Cailles and his staff entered the church, where mass was celebrated by Chaplain Hurt of the Eighth United States Infantry.

Cailles Weeps at Surrender.

The column passed in review before the United States Army headquarters with arms at port, returned to the enclosure, where they surrendered their rifles and received receipts entitling them to 30 pesos each. All the receipts were deposited in the hat of Cailles and his officers, Cailles insisting that the arms were not being sold, but belonged to the revolutionary government and that the proceeds must go to the widows and orphans.

During the surrender of arms Cailles and his staff, who were outside the enclosure, wept.

Tendered His Sword.

The officers afterward walked to headquarters, where Cailles tendered his sword to General Sumner, who gallantly handed it back. General Sumner also handed back the revolutionists' flag, which Cailles will personally present to General MacArthur. General Sumner congratulated Cailles on his surrender, and the latter responded that it was a happy day for Laguna Province.

Placed in Irons.

The President of the Federalists in Laguna made a patriotic address to the former Filipino officers and then the latter and the rank and file of the Philippine took the oath of allegiance publicly on the Plaza.

Frank McKin, who had been acting as a Lieutenant with the insurgents, and who surrendered today, was placed in irons.

Dr. McKay reports that there were six deaths en route, five of which were caused by plague, and the sixth is supposed to have been. All the deaths but one were among members of the crew, the exception being a Chinese steerage passenger.

Dr. McKay reports that all the others on board are in good health.

BLACKMAILER IS HELD AT BAY.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Guy Bohring, who soon after the death of George M. Pullman claimed he was a son of a former wife of the millionaire but failed to establish his claims, was arrested today in the office of Frank O. Lowden, in the Women's Temple Building, on the charge of attempting to extort money. By force, Mr. Lowden married Miss Florence Pullman, daughter of George M. Pullman. It is claimed that Bohring extorted that Mr. Lowden give him $5,000 and $10,000 a month for six months, and when refused exclaimed: "Well, I will get the money." Judge H. D. Davis, the law partner of Mr. Lowden, drew a revolver and held Bohring until the police arrived. Bohring was unarmed and asserts he meant no harm.

NOW DISAPPEARS.

BERKELEY, June 24.—R. A. Darter, who, with his wife, conducted a candy store here and another one at 2040 O'Farrell street, San Francisco, has disappeared, leaving many creditors to mourn his departure.

Darter's wife, a comely young woman who was engaged with him in the candy business, created a sensation about three weeks ago by eloping with Byron Morrow, a motorman, and now Darter's disappearance has led his creditors to believe that the elopement was simply a conspiracy to defraud them.

THE SHERIFF

STRIKERS.Does Not Like the Court's Injunction in the Great Coal Miners' Strike.ARMED GUARDS ARE NOW ON THE SCENE.

MATTEWAN, W. Va., June 24.—No developments of a serious nature marked Sunday's situation at the scene of the strike in the Thacker-Mattewan coal field.

At a secret caucus held at Thacker Sunday night it is understood that vigorous speeches were made by strikers in condemnation of Judge Jackson's sweeping injunction, but the conservatives were in the majority and no plan was mapped out looking to any trespass on its conditions.

However, the statement is made that the men at work, representing a small percentage of the 2,000 involved, would be pressed to unite with the strikers.

Government by Injunction.

While the injunction was made effective Friday, the defendants in equity were not formally served until this morning. The service of summons met with no particular act of violence, although the officers were greeted with jeers and imprecations on "government by injunction." To add to the seriousness of the situation, Sheriff Hatfield and a force of picked men who reported for guard duty at the mine have refused to serve and returned to Williamson.

Sheriff Did Not Act.

To the Associated Press representative Deputy White said last night: "We declined to take a hand in the controversy because the demand of the operators that all intercourse between the strikers and the non-union men be suspended was a manifestly unjust act. We agreed to preserve order, prevent interference of a violent nature and protect mining property, but beyond this we could not go in fairness."

The guards now on duty in the six colonies in the district are selected from the ranks of non-union men and number all told about 100, all armed.

Cause of Strike.

The operators maintain that the strike was due to the refusal of Superintendent Lambert of the Maritime and Lick Fork mines to discharge a miner from the Pikehorn field, who declined to join the union on the ground that he already belonged to too many orders to justify him in the additional expense. The wage question does not figure, the wages paid averaging from $3 to $5 per day, being entirely satisfactory. Five hundred dollars a week in relief funds is coming into this field from the United Mine Workers of America.

A NATION FOR
SEC. HAY.Sudden Death of His Son Came as a Great Shock to the Family.MESSAGES FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD.

NEW HAVEN, June 24.—The class of '99 of Yale University, of which Adelbert S. Hay was a member, today passed a resolution expressing "appreciation of his noble character and admirable qualities." Two hundred members of the class who are here to attend their triennial reunion, the largest class reunion known in Yale's history, were present at the meeting, Frank E. Simmons of St. Louis presiding. The ball game which was to have been played by members of the class with a team representing the class of '97 and which was to have been a notable feature of commencement week festivities, has been given up.

A committee consisting of R. R. Hitt, son of Congressman Hitt of Illinois; Paine Whitney, son of ex-Secretary of the Navy W. C. Whitney of New York; Jas. T. Wadsworth, son of Congressman Wadsworth of Genesee, N. Y.; Robert Garrison of New York and Julian Starkweather Mason of Chicago will represent the class at the funeral. Mr. Hitt was a room mate of Adelbert Hay in college.

Early this afternoon it was announced that it was hoped that the family would be able to leave for Cleveland, Ohio, with the body on a train starting from here at 7:40 this evening. There was still some uncertainty about the coming of Mrs. Hay, and it was given out that she would perhaps not stop here, but would go direct to Cleveland. Her son Clarence and daughter Alice are with her. Telegrams of condolence from President McKinley, members of his Cabinet and many others reached Secretary Hay at the Mossley residence today.

SECRETARY HAY IS BETTER.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 24.—After passing a fairly restful night, Secretary Hay, who arrived late yesterday at the residence of Seth H. Mossley, where the body of his son lay, was struck with physical collapse, was very much improved this morning.

At 9 o'clock he received a call from Dr. Gilbert, his physician. The doctor found Col. Hay so much better that he permitted him to sit up, and while dictating that he remain quietly in his room for the day, expressed the belief that he will be able to leave the city this evening, if necessary.

Immediately after the departure of the physician, Secretary Hay arose and had breakfast in his room. No definite plans for the funeral will be fixed upon until the arrival of Mrs. Hay and her daughter, who are expected this afternoon from Newbury, N. H., their summer home. Meanwhile, however, arrangements are being made tentatively for departure with the body later in the day.

BRANDES IS ELOQUENTLY DENOUNCED BY WALSH.

The Young Attorney Arraigns Him in Scathing Terms for the Murder of His Innocent Daughter—A Powerful Opening of the Case for the Prosecution in Which Evidence is Searchingly Analyzed.

"Suffer little children to come unto me," spoke the Savior. This touching manifestation of divine affection for the little ones is the most terrible indictment that could be framed against this man who sits here with his hands stained with the blood of his innocent child, and whose blackened and blasted soul feels no remorse for that horrible and unnatural deed.

With uplifted hands Deputy District Attorney Philip M. Walsh spoke thus to the jury in the Brandes case, his voice thrilling with impressive earnestness.

This morning he opened the argument for the prosecution in the case of W. A. Brandes, charged with the murder of his 14-year-old daughter Lillian. The previous conviction of Brandes was set aside by the Supreme Court on account of errors in the former trial.

During the trial just closed Mr. Walsh exhibited marked talent as a prosecutor. His task was made difficult because of the complete change of front on the part of the defense. In the former trial the attorneys for the defendant attempted to prove that the girl was not murdered but committed suicide, and placed their client on the stand to sustain their theory.

Judge Frick, who appeared for the defense in the second trial, made no effort to disprove the fact of murder, but adroitly shaped the testimony to give color to the theory that the girl was killed in a fight with her step-mother, and that Brandes acted as he did in order to shield his wife. To sustain this theory the defendant was kept off the stand. Mrs. Brandes was called, but declined to answer on the ground that it might tend to incriminate herself. However, no direct testimony was introduced to show that the woman did really kill the unfortunate child, but a good deal was brought forward to prove that Brandes was not at his home between the hours during which the physicians said the girl received the fatal injuries.

Mr. Walsh's opening was a scathing arraignment of the prisoner's unnatural treatment of his motherless daughter. The claim of the defense that the father loved his child and treated her with tender kindness was stripped and torn by an able marshal in golf parts of the testimony showing that he abused the girl, called her a liar and a thief and made her sleep in a dismal basement.

After calling attention to the manner in which Brandes had deceived the girl away from her home with her aunt with a falsehood, the attorney paid his respects to the witness Mrs. Brandes, who, he said, had been "waxed" from Ukiah to testify to the generous magnificence with which this defendant treated his daughter—this defendant who sits here with a marble face and eyes that see not. When this loving parent got the child home he did not take her in the house with the rest of the family, but put her to sleep in the basement, and then said she preferred to sleep there.

"The Richardsons testify to hearing the blows showered on his frail little daughter by this tender-hearted parent, and to hearing her pitiful cry 'Oh, Al, don't beat me any more! Don't kill me!' The witness, now dead, testified to hearing between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning this under-hearted father beating his child and her pleadings for mercy."

Then the attorney sketched the events leading up to the repeated beatings. How the girl was accused of stealing fifteen dollars from her father's bureau, the step-mother making the charge. After commenting on the fact that Mrs. Brandes and her son had access to the bureau, the attorney pointed out that Brandes threatened to beat her to death if she did not return the money. The pathetic attempt of the poor child to borrow a dollar from Harvey in order to appease her father's wrath; her denial of having stolen the money from the bureau; the refusal of the father to allow her to eat supper with the other members of the family saying she was not fit to sit at the table were all dwelt upon, and attention was called to the testimony of the baker Wright, that on the following morning he saw bruises on the girl's face.

"These were but additional marks of the affection lavished on his daughter by this tender-hearted parent. Is it not confirmatory proof that the innocent child was again beaten because she was unable to find the money said to have been stolen? Picture this poor child scratching around in the stable in the vain effort to find the missing articles that she might turn aside the fierce wrath of this tender and loving father. All the events come in sequence, showing the motive for this atrocious crime, the merciless disposition of the cruel father, and the various acts that culminated in the foul murder of this child.

"That veteran witness, the son of this defendant, who was between 10 and 11 years old when this occurred, was put on the stand to testify to a terrible encounter between Mrs. Brandes and the child Lillian. He told a story of a direct conflict—Mrs. Brandes armed with a poker and Lillian with a knife. Mrs. Brandes is a woman in the prime of life, strong and full of bodily vigor. Yet, according to this boy's story, this frail child, four feet ten inches in height, and weighing ninety pounds, wrestled the poker from her hands and gave her a beating with it. But to account for the bruises on the girl's head he said his mother struck her over the head with the poker. All this is simply a cunningly devised tale to cast the infamy of this most horrible crime upon the woman to shield this man who brutally did his dearest child to death in the still watches of the night, who dragged her from her bed, in the home which should have been her haven of refuge from sorrow and ill usage, and struck out her young life with blows that would have shamed the maddest rage of a wild beast.

"The story is incredible. No such struggle happened. It was physically impossible for this weak girl to have overpowered her strong, healthy stepmother in the manner described. It is a story that is disproved by all the circumstances and by the testimony of the other witnesses in the case. One witness testified that Mrs. Brandes had once watched a bottle of poison from the hands of this child, but to no acts of unkindness on her part. Harvey's evidence shows that Mrs. Brandes did treat the child unkindly, but that it was the unnatural brutality of the tender-hearted parent that drove Lillian Brandes to desperation and finally encompassed her to death.

"To this hideous crime is added the iniquity of having this boy to relate a false and impossible story to shift the guilt from the real perpetrator to the shoulders of his own mother. Oh, what a tender-hearted parent is this you have before you, who sits unmoved during the recital of incidents which would make the hardened to tears, and unshamed by the revelation of atrocious brutality on his part that would disgrace the beasts of the field."

In impressive tones Mr. Walsh pointed out that the defendant gave a false account of his movements on the day and night prior to the girl's death. He spoke of the cold blooded and methodical way in which the defendant acted on the day of his daughter's death, and the conflicting statements he made about sending her away, and the peculiarity of his movements on the morning of the murder.

"He said," continued Walsh, "that he came to Oakland to get a cloak. We know that he did not. He said that he returned to his home at 5:30 Saturday morning. This is disproved by the evidence. At the former trial he testified that he made his rounds Friday night on foot. The evidence in this case shows the story to have been false. He denied that Lillian was his daughter, and declared that she was only an adopted child. He manifested no more emotion at her death than if she had been an utter stranger. Why were those false stories told? Was his conduct that of a tender-hearted parent?

"The only explanation of his conduct is the one that the evidence irresistibly points to, and every circumstance indicates—that he went to his home Saturday morning, pulled that child out of her bed and showered blows on her head and shoulders till they caused death. He had done it before, and the child's words and actions showed that she was in mortal terror of her father's wrath. His threats and his beatings showed her what she had to expect at the hands of this tender-hearted parent. Could she not exclaim in her agony with the crucified Christ, 'My God, Why hast Thou forsaken me?'

"Why was the defendant so anxious to have everything hushed up and the body put away as quickly as possible? Why did he deny that he was her father, and why did he ask that nothing be said about the matter? The child was found hanging to a low bedpost. She did not kill herself. The evidence shows that she was killed by blows on the head. Who hung her to that bedpost? She was tied to it in the hope of covering up a most horrible crime which all the testimony shows was committed by Brandes. There is no evidence save the fairy tale of this boy who was brought here to shield his father from just punishment for his hideous crime, that the poor child ever suffered violence at the hands of her stepmother. There is no evidence that the girl herself was ever guilty of acts of violence. The testimony of Harvey, who lived in the house, is that she was quiet and gentle—a loving creature, who lived in terror of abuse. Whom did she dread? Her father.

"It was attempted at the former trial to show that she committed suicide. She did not commit suicide. Had she been inclined to do so because of desperation at the miserable life she was led by this tender-hearted parent, she would never have taken her life by hanging to a bedpost. She might have taken poison, or drowned herself, but a child of her years would never have deliberately strangled herself to death to that bedpost.

"The cold-blooded inhumanity of this man is shown by his performance of certain delicate services in preparing the body for burial that only a person bereft of all sentiment of human affection could perform. The recital of it is enough to make the blood run cold. It is but another evidence of his utter heartlessness and his desire to cover up the evidence of his atrocious villainy."

During the delivery of this awful philippic, Brandes sat apathetically, the most unconcerned member of the convention. Not a hint of color came into his bloodless cheeks, and he kept his eyes fixed on the eloquent young prosecutor with a cold, calculating interest that indicated wonderful self-control. Walsh was continuing his argument when the noon recess was taken.

A HEART OF ADAMANT.

"The heart of the father who committed this black deed on that gray morning has a heart of adamant," began Deputy District Attorney Walsh in the afternoon. "It required a heart of adamant, after he had struck down his child, to place an apron around her neck and hang her to a bedpost. This was the man who took her from her aunt, where she had a home, and made her sleep in a basement. It is said he wept. The greatest delinquent of human character that ever lived has painted the conduct of a man and woman who murdered a benefactor because of lust for place and power. They also wept. This defendant went to the coroner's inquest to see if bruises on the body of his child were found. He testified that he did not know there were any bruises on her body. He had washed the corpse, yet he saw no bruises. Yet he wept. Yea, such tears as Macbeth and his wife shed over the body of the heroic Duncan.

"But did his conduct show grief? After he had washed the body and prepared it for burial, did he sit in the house with his head bowed in sorrow? No, he called on a lady friend in Oakland. Did he tell her that his daughter had committed suicide? No, he told her that his child's brother's child, Mark, you had committed suicide in Berkeley this morning by hanging. This shows the grief of this extraordinary father. But he wept—and he denied his daughter. He told Harvey that she had killed herself by hanging, and then he said she had taken poison. No traces of poison were found in her stomach. He said she had first taken poison and then hung herself. What made him talk of poison? What indication was there of poison? None. The defendant was trying to make people believe that she had committed suicide.

"What impression did it seem to have on his mind of what he was saying? 'None whatever,' was the reply. 'Brandes says he asked Harvey to assist him with the body, but Harvey denies this. Harvey said he was going to San Francisco, and did go. There is no evidence that he was otherwise than a sympathetic man. There is no reason to suppose that he refused to assist Harvey. He had been made the natural repugnance of many men to looking upon a dead body, and probably desired to get away from the house of death.

"When Deputy Sheriff White saw Brandes, this marble-faced defendant did not give Harvey's name nor tell where he had gone. He gave a wrong name and a wrong address. Harvey was a man over six feet in height. Brandes described him to the deputy sheriff as a short, thick-set man. He said his name was Harry Tompkins, or something like that. Are these the acts of an innocent man? Is not the conclusion irresistible that he was trying to throw the officers off the scent that he might conceal the evidences of his crime? Harvey knew the girl was dead when he was called. He knew of the beatings she had received. That is why Brandes gave a false name and a false description to the officers.

"Brandes says he went to the inquest to see the bruises on the body. He pretended that he had never seen any of the shocking marks of brutality on that tender child. There was no doubt in the minds of others the moment the body was exposed what had caused death. He had not even seen the marks on her fingers, evidently received while she was lifting up her hands to protect her head from the fiercely descending blows of this tender-hearted parent."

ON TRIAL FOR TREASON.

Marquis de Lur-Saluces Faces the High Court of Justice Today.

PARIS, June 24.—The Senate assembled this afternoon in its capacity of a high court of justice to try the Marquis de Lur-Saluces, the well known royalist and former member of the Chamber of Deputies, who returned unexpectedly to Paris about the middle of May, after having been condemned in January, 1902, in default of appearance, to ten years' banishment from France for treason. The President of the Senate, M. Fallieres, presided. The Marquis, escorted by two guards, appeared at the bar of the House to answer the charge of complicity in the crimes of high treason and attempts against the safety of the State, for which Mme. de Roulede, Buffet, Marcel-Habert and Guerin were condemned. There was no excitement in the vicinity of the Palace, where the Senate holds its sittings, as was the case in the earlier trial of the Marquis and the others mentioned.

He has been the attorney for the brewers in certain suits.

Control of Legislature. The control of the Legislature is of unusual importance this year as the next general assembly apportions the State under the census of 1900 for legislative representation as well as other purposes. It also selects the successor of Senator Foraker, and as he is considered the leader in the coming campaign, much interest was taken today in his key-note speech, as temporary chairman of the convention. It is understood that Senator Hanna will preside over the convention tomorrow, which he will address the convention.

Will Enjoin McKimley.

While the platform will endorse the administration of President McKimley and Governor Nash strongly, it is said that Senators Foraker and Hanna will be consulted on the declarations on national issues and Governor Nash on State issues. The only issue causing any difference of opinion is that of local option.

The delegates met at 2 p. m. by Congressional districts to select members of the committees on credentials, rules and order of business, etc., which will be reported to the convention when it convenes at 4 p. m.

Convention Adjourns.

The convention was called to order shortly after 4 o'clock by Peter W. Durr, of Cincinnati, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee. Prayer was offered by Rev. W. N. Goode. After reviewing the last campaign in Ohio and calling attention to the importance of the coming contest, Mr. Durr introduced Senator J. B. Foraker as the temporary chairman of the Convention. Oration had been given by Foraker, Hanna, Nash, Bushnell, Foster and other leaders as they entered the hall, but at this juncture Senator Foraker was greeted with greater demonstrations than ever.

After the appointment of the committees on credentials, resolutions, etc., it was announced that these committees would meet tonight and have their reports ready for the convention at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Adjourned.

HOW GALDSTONE WON HIS CASE.

Herbert Gladstone, a young employee at the gas works, possesses at least some of the characteristics of the immortal English statesman. He believes in investigation. He was arrested this morning while riding to the works on his bicycle. Policeman Moore, dressed in citizens' clothes, and also riding a white, spied him, so the arresting officer claims, passing a man on the sidewalk. The policeman was a block away at the time but he overtook the rider. In the Police Court, Gladstone pleaded not guilty and was tried by Acting Police Judge Quinn.

After the policeman had testified to the circumstances of the arrest Gladstone took the stand. He said: "I was on my way to work and do not remember passing a man on the sidewalk. When arrested I told the officer so, and he said I had passed a newsboy on Grove, near Twenty-first street. I said, 'Well, let's go back and ask him if he passed me.' I have no other, replied Mr. Moore. 'Well, neither have I, but we might make some time,' I said. 'So we went back and the boy stated that he did not see me pass him on the sidewalk.' Judge Quinn suspended sentence.

BARTENDERS WILL MEET TOMORROW.

A meeting of the Bartenders' Union will be held Tuesday evening at California Hall. Important business will be transacted, and Secretary Kelly states that the rule of fines for non-attendance will be strictly enforced.

WATER COMPANY'S SUIT GOES OVER ONE WEEK.

At the request of Attorney Nussbaumer, the action of the Contra Costa Water Company to compel City Auditor Breed to pay the city's water bills was continued one week. Attorney Nussbaumer said he did not wish to dismiss the action before consulting with his associates in the case.

TO PASS WATER RATES AND CONSIDER BONDS.

The City Council meets tonight in adjourned session to finally pass the water rate ordinance for 1901-02. The Council will also meet as a Committee of the Whole to consider the issuance of bonds for public improvements.

RICH ESTATE OF JUDGE BOALT.

The will of the late Judge John H. Boalt, formerly a member of the law firm of Garber, Boalt and Bishop, was admitted to probate this morning by Judge Ellisworth and letters testamentary granted to his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Boalt.

The estate is valued at between $200,000 and $250,000. It consists of about $100,000 worth of realty in different parts of the State, and stocks, bonds, notes, mortgages and personal property. The will is elaborate. The entire estate is left to the widow. The only other heir is a grandchild, Alice Boalt Tevis, daughter of the late Hugh Tevis. Although no direct provision is made for the grandchild, she is left to the care of Mrs. Boalt. The testator states in his will that he has no other heirs, but that if it is determined by a court that he has such they are to receive the sum of $5 each. Attorney Charles Wheeler represented Mrs. Boalt in court.

INSPECTOR TO REPORT.

"The subject," said Mr. Church, "was referred to a committee, of which I am chairman. That committee now makes a report based upon the opinion of the District Attorney that there is an eight-hour law in effect in regard to public work, and recommends that in this case the matter be inquired into and that the inspectors or on the bridge in question report to the Supervisors any violation there of the eight-hour law. I now move the adoption of the report, and that the inspector be instructed to report to this Board any violation of the law which may take place on the work."

The motion prevailed, Mr. Talcott voting nay and Messrs. Church, Mitchell, Horner and Rowe in the affirmative.

STOCKTON, Cal., June 24.—The cornerstone of the Government post office building now in course of construction in this city was laid here today with Masonic ceremonies. Several addresses were made, the chief address being given by J. A. Hosmer of San Francisco, Grand Orator of the Masons. Grand Master Orrin S. Herderson of Stockton also delivered a short address, and Mayor George Catt of Stockton made the address of welcome. The ceremony of laying the cornerstone, which was witnessed by a large crowd, was preceded by a parade including civic societies, led by the 10th Regiment Band. Many Mason dignitaries were present from other parts of the State.

Fifteen Thousand Knights As- semble in Cincinnati For Business.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 24—Fifteen thousand informed Knights of the Catholic Order of St. John arrived here to attend their twenty-third annual convention, which began a four days' session here today. The opening service of the convention was held in St. Peter's Cathedral, where a pontifical high mass was read. The attending Knights then marched to the Odcon, where the business sessions are to be held.

Among the important questions to be considered are the amalgamation of all Catholic societies into a general organization and the placing of limitations on the number of terms allowed for national officers.

OVER-ZEALOUS OFFICIALS.

In San Francisco the other day a little girl was arrested by the over-zealous agents of a humane society because she was trying to earn bread for her invalid parents by selling newspapers. The officials, for their wanton and misdirected abuse of power, received a severe set-back in the courts and from the public journals, and it is probable that they will be more discreet in future. But now comes from New York a story which indicates that they are as little regardless of justice there as the so-called "humane" officers were across the bay. Says the World, in its summary of the case:

"When his father died and his mother was sent up for drunkenness, Little Joe Phillips took charge of himself and his tiny sisters. He became a good father and a good mother, a good bread-winner and a model housekeeper and nurse. His is one of the splendid, touching instances of real heroism. For this crime he is sent to a reformatory to be educated among young crooks and incorrigibles."

Such authenticated instances of the despotic methods of organizations that are only semi-public in their management suggest that steps should be taken to put their agents more directly under the control of municipalities and of the regular police. The fact that the number of children under their care is considered in the apportionment of State aid to the humane institutions and is expected—many of them could not exist without it—should give the general body of taxpayers a right to voice in their management and in the appointment of the agents who are now absolutely irresponsible as far as the public is concerned. It is a dangerous policy to allow unrestricted invasion of the parental prerogatives, but the practice is becoming too common.

The Fourth of July will in years to come be as eventful an anniversary in the Philippines as it is in the United States, for the Presidential proclamation inaugurating civil rule there upon that day marks the commencement of a new and promising glorious epoch for the islands. Wonder how Atkinson and his fellow-traitors of the Iloilo league feel now-a-days; as they have not been heard of since their ally Aguinaldo surrendered, it is to be presumed that they have accomplished that celebrated feat of crawling into a hole and pulling the hole up after them.

The State Board of Architecture has organized. It ought to prove a good drawing card for the administration, for the members of the profession it is created to protect are glad that at last incompetents and fakirs will be drummed out of the business.

It was 110 in the shade at Arizona one day last week. The principal trouble, too, down that way is that there is no shade.

RAILROAD COLONIZATION.

No more powerful colonization agents have ever been known than the great railroads of this country. They have virtually populated the West and without them much of the territory that is now divided up into prosperous States would still be a wilderness. For several years the transportation corporations have lessened their efforts in this direction, their time and resources being needed in the wars for one another's control. Now, however, there is evidence that they are about to resume their former activity, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe being the first to make its announcements.

This company has organized a vast colonization plan, by which it is proposed to bring to this country from Italy thousands of thrifty farmers, settle them in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and the San Joaquin Valley, California, and thus build up territory from whence to draw increased traffic in the future, increasing in this manner the railway's own revenues in a perfectly legitimate way. No inefficiencies are to be among the immigrants—only men and women who by their industry in the places of their birth have shown their ability to take care of themselves and to become good citizens in this land to which they are coming.

These are the citizens that California wants. That the men and women from the Italian States are industrious and valuable adjuncts to any community has been demonstrated in many parts of the State. They till the soil, avoid the congested cities, and, in such counties as Marin and San Mateo, form the mainstay of the local government. If the Santa Fe does no more than to bring so welcome an addition to this State it will have proved itself a benefactor. But there should be no misunderstanding about the class of immigrants—let the railway keep to its bond. Farmers are what we want—young men with some little means of their own, who will bring their families and make this their home and their country, and who while retaining a tender memory of the land of their nativity, will yet be content to live here for the rest of their lives as good Americans. We want none of the riff-raff that is being dumped into New York by the steamship companies operating on that side of the continent.

Chicago is going to enlarge its telephone service as a result of the new deal that took President Sabin there. That's not surprising—they like to hear themselves talk in the Windy City.

Now they are going to consolidate the cotton seed industry. The trust promoters are evidently determined to be on the inside as regards that particular product.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE CHAS. BREDHOFF.

The funeral of the late Charles Bredhoff, who died Thursday from dropsy, was held Saturday afternoon at his late home, 1120 Eighth street, Rev. Dr. Theiss officiating. The music was furnished by the Temple Quartet, and the following acted as pall-bearers: Theodore Gier, Walter Meese, Adolph Richter, Henry Paulson, John Siebe Jr. and L. Golly.

Deceased was for twenty-three years the bookkeeper for Siebe Brothers and Plagman of San Francisco. He was a charter member of the German Club, and was very popular, especially with the German residents of Oakland and San Francisco. He was born in San Francisco thirty-nine years ago. He leaves a widow and two brothers, Henry Bredhoff, who for years has been the head bookkeeper for Fred Becker, and Julius Bredhoff.

The Anti-Profane League has been formed in this city. The pledge is as follows: "Looking to God for aid in keeping this resolution, I obligate myself to avoid the use of profane, vulgar and obscene conversation, and to discourage its use in others so far as I may be able to do so."

REV. BROWN TELLS OF RELIGION.

Pastor of the First Congregational Church Tells of His Observations.

Rev. Charles R. Brown, pastor of the First Congregational Church, who has just returned from the East, spoke last evening on the subject: "Some Observations on Religious Conditions in the East." His speech was as follows: "It is my desire this evening to speak informally and in a direct manner in regard to a few of the things which I noticed in the East. I find that it does a minister a great deal of good to become a layman once in a while and simply walk into a church with the full realization that one is to be simply a listener. In fact, this plan works so well in regard to ministers that I have come to the conclusion that it would be well for the layman to preach once in a while and give the minister a chance to listen. It would be productive of much good."

"I was in New York two Sundays, both of which days I had the chance of which I have just spoken. Everywhere I went in the great city I was impressed with the strong, rich life which seems overflowing in the business streets and in the churches. It is indeed a place where the very best is wanted, and that alone."

Mr. Brown then described several of the churches, which he visited and the manner of men he found in the pulpits. Only three denominations in the great city have a wide-felt influence, and those are the Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Reformed Dutch. The other denominations in the city are weak and of small membership.

"Of the general religious tendencies which impressed me," said the preacher, "there were several of very marked influence. I believe above all things that there is a growing recognition of the necessity of religion in the great Eastern cities. Men have found that they cannot get along without it; not that they do not know right from wrong, but that something more than mere will power is needed to lead them on. In the pure, simple Gospel of Jesus Christ is a dynamic force which lifts men above themselves and carries them on to higher ideals, and above all that has been found in God. It is this that has been found necessary, and men are beginning to come in and fulfill the need."

"On the part of all men there is a growing interest in the economic questions of the day. If men are to consider the worth so that others can enjoy their labor it is felt that the conditions must be made other than they are. Men, and big ones at that, are grappling with the subject, but at the same time they realize that the need of Christ is there to guide men as they should go even if they may suffer."

"The methods of religious work are largely educational. Not mere instruction of the brain, tending to the development of the entire man and his personality. If a boy is sent to school, not merely his brain, but the whole body is taken care of, and that is the way in which the workers have taken hold of the problem. They contend that not only the boy's mind should be trained in the way of right doing, but all his instincts and habits as well. It is with this purpose that the churches have become the nucleus of the life which whirled about them in the great city."

OAKLAND TEAM WINS A GAME BY DEFAULT.

Yesterday morning's baseball game went to Oakland by default owing to a dispute in the fifth inning. Whalen of the San Francisco team refused to accept a decision of Umpire Tyler and was ordered off the field. As San Francisco had no other pitcher, the game was stopped. The score was 3 to 1 in favor of Oakland, but the official score will stand 9 to 0 owing to the default. In the afternoon San Francisco was victorious by a score of 6 to 2. Los Angeles defeated Sacramento by a score of 5 to 1. San Francisco defeated Oakland Saturday by a score of 6 to 5.

WANTS HUSBAND TO SUPPORT HIS CHILD.

Theodore Lange, the butcher, has been cited to appear before Judge Ellisworth and show cause, if he has any, why he should not be compelled to pay $25 a month for the support of his 13-year-old daughter. The citation was issued on the petition of Mrs. Elizabeth Lange, the mother.

Mrs. Lange secured a divorce from her husband about a year ago on the ground of extreme cruelty. The testimony was to the effect that Lange had struck his wife with his fist and that he had choked her. The couple were married in 1889. When the divorce was granted, no provision was made for the support of their child. Ben B. Haskell is Mrs. Lange's attorney.

It's Worse For a Woman

To suffer with skin disease than it is for a man to have a skin disease for a smooth skin and a clear complexion are essential elements of female beauty. When the taint of scrofula is in the blood it will be sure to show itself soon or late. Often its manifestations are as repulsive as they are painful. Many people have been cured of scrofula in its most malignant forms by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This remedy is remarkable for its power to purify the blood. It absolutely eliminates the corrupting elements. It makes the blood clean and rich. It increases the action of the blood-making glands, and so increases the quantity of pure blood supplied to the body.

"I will forever thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. Jas. Murphy, of Fond du Lac, Wis. "It has cured me of chronic scrofula, and I have been free from it for two years. I am in good health now—better than I ever was in my life, owing to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took several bottles of the 'Discovery' before I stopped."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a work for every woman, is sent free, on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps (to pay cost of mailing only), for paper edition. Cloth-bound, at stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

EDNA WALLACE AT SAN LEANDRO

Noted Actress Arrives in Town to Attend Funeral of Her Mother.

Mrs. Josephine Dunsmuir died Saturday last of typhoid fever at her late home on the Southern farm near San Leandro. She had been ill for only a week.

The deceased was the widow of the late Alexander Dunsmuir one of the members of the well known family of Dunsmuir, who, for years, have been working the coal mines of British Columbia, and who died about a year ago.

Mrs. Dunsmuir was formerly the wife of Walter Wallace, head usher of the old California Theater, San Francisco, in the days of the stock company under John McCullough and Lawrence Barrett. The Wallaces eventually separated, and the wife retained custody of the daughter, Edna. Later Mrs. Wallace and Edna removed to East Oakland. About two years ago, shortly before Alexander Dunsmuir's death in the East, it was publicly announced that he had secretly married Mrs. Wallace some years previously.

The daughter of the deceased embraced the stage, became distinguished as a comedienne and subsequently she became the wife of De Wolf Hopper the comedian. She was, however, divorced from him a couple of years ago.

When her mother's illness took a serious turn, the daughter was telegraphed to and immediately canceled a professional engagement and left for her home. She arrived in this city and was immediately driven to the country home beyond San Leandro.

No announcement of the funeral has yet been made.

STARTLING STORY TOLD BY ASSESSMENT ROLLS.

According to Assessor Dalton the people of Alameda County Are Growing Poorer Year by Year, and the More Property They Accumulate the Less it is Worth.

A TALE OF ASSESSMENTS.

The per capita assessment for Alameda county was in 1890 $837

1900 669

The per capita assessment of Oakland was in 1891 $878

1900 630

Assessor Dalton says an injustice has been done him because THE TRIBUNE stated that he had assessed

Alameda county in 1897 for $38,770,427, when it was in 1896 that he assessed the county at that figure.

The error is both inadvertent and immortal. The point is that several years ago Mr. Dalton assessed the county for $28,770,427, and in 1900 as-essed it for nearly $12,000,000 less.

Whether the high assessment was made in 1896 or 1897 is not very material, save that placing it in the earlier year makes the showing even worse for the Assessor. However, Mr.

Dalton is entitled to have it stated that it was in 1896 that he assessed the county for $28,770,427.

But he says the assessment for 1897 was $28,948,725. According to the official statement of the County Auditor, from which these figures are taken, the assessment for 1897 was $25,324,030.

This also is immaterial, although Mr.

Dalton will hardly accuse the Auditor of misrepresenting him in his official reports.

Why did the assessment fall off $12,- 448,307 from 1896 to 1897? According to Mr. Dalton it fell off $15,321,701.

The years 1895 and 1896 were panic years. Everybody remembers the hard times and low prices of that period. Everybody knows that times began to mend immediately after November, 1896, and that prosperous business conditions set in early in the year

1897, and have steadily grown more prosperous since. Why should Alameda county grow poorer during the prosperous period than it was during the panic year? Has it actually decreased? There are more people, more business, more buildings and other improvements. Produce and livestock

THE WATER FRONT.

The steamer China arrived in San Francisco Saturday with 400 Chinese passengers, many of whom intend to come to Oakland to work in the orchards of Alameda county. The work of examining the Chinese under the exclusion act was begun today, but it will be several days before they are all examined.

William Heitmann, former president of the Oakland City Council and now a deputy in the Chinese Department of the National Government, states that many of those who arrived on the China are suspected of not having been in this country before, and if so, they will be sent back to China. It is claimed that the Chinese bosses in the fruit orchards around Hayward and Livermore sent back to China early in the year for laborers, believing that the fruit crop would be unusually large and that they would be short of help.

As a consequence it is said there are about fifty Chinese aboard the steamer China who cannot legally enter this country, and they will not be allowed to land.

An Old Schooner.

The schooner Eros has been placed upon the ways to have her bottom scraped and to be furnished with a new copper bottom. The Eros is an historical vessel. She was built in 1860 and piled between Charleston, S.

C., and the West Indies. In 1865 she engaged in smuggling arms to Confederates, making two trips from England to South Carolina with arms and ammunition.

On the second trip she was captured by Commodore Farragut's flagship and during the remainder of the war she was used by the Union navy, for a part of the time as a transport for wounded soldiers, and later as a hospital ship.

Since the war the Eros has been reconstructed several times, and it is said that hardly one of the original timbers remains. Of late years she has been engaged in the coast lumber trade. She is a queer looking craft, being of longer range and greater depth of hold than vessels are built now-a-days. She is a two-masted schooner, 120 feet long.

Harbor Notes.

Last week was a quiet one along the water front, there being very little doing in the shipyards and shipping being very light. At the shipyards of W. A. Boyle & Son the employees are working on the keel of the new barkentine, which will be a companion to the Lahaina, which was recently launched and which left last week for San Francisco to take on ballast for her maiden trip to Puget Sound. At the Sound the Lahaina will take on a cargo of lumber for Shanghai, China. The Wawona is still incomplete, owing to the iron workers' strike.

No new work has been commenced at either Hay & Wright's or Dickey's shipyards. At the former place the Mary Sachs, the schooner which recently returned from a scientific expedition to the South Sea Islands, has been placed upon the ways to be supplied with a copper bottom.

HUNDREDS OF LIVES LOST.

Thrilling Stories Told by Some of the Survivors of the Flood in Virginia—People Fought Desperately for Their Lives—
Property for Miles in the Valley Completely Destroyed.

RICHMOND, Va., June 24.—Conflicting reports received here place the loss of life in the region of the flood at from 200 to 300. It is pretty certain that Keystone has been virtually washed out, but the loss of life there probably is over-estimated.

The Norfolk and Western people know nothing except that they have suffered heavy damages to tracks.

The track of the Chesapeake and Ohio near Keystone is also heavily damaged and trains are tied up. There has been a tremendous flood at Charleston, W. Va. Several children were drowned near Taxwell.

Great Damage Done.

ROANOKE, Va., June 24.—When the passenger train from the west over the Norfolk & Western Railroad arrived this morning there were many people at the station who had waited anxiously all night for the belated train. The rain ceased falling about 9 o'clock Saturday morning. There has been no rain since and the streams are gradually falling.

Ropes to Passengers.

Ropes were thrown to the cars and the male passengers caught them and waded through the water, waist deep, to places of safety. The ladies were too much frightened to get into the water and were placed on the tender of the engine, where they were safe. Other portions of the railroad yards were washed out and a hundred box cars were wrecked. The house in which the section master at Vivian lived was washed away. A young son of the section master rode on driftwood for four miles and was then lodged in a tree, from which he was rescued. A colored section hand was drowned. The rain ceased falling about 9 o'clock Saturday morning. There has been no rain since and the streams are gradually falling.

Damage is $500,000.

ROANOKE, Va., June 24.—Norfolk and Western officials here say that owing to wires being down and no direct communication, they are unable to estimate the damage caused by the flood in the coal fields. They do not believe the damage to property will amount to $500,000, as at first reported. Estimates of 200 lives lost are now thought to be too great.

Arrangements for Relief.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 24.—Governor White is here making arrangements to get trains and provisions for the flood stricken district along the Norfolk and Western Railroad. He says he fears the death toll will exceed one thousand.

DEATH SUMMONS MRS. LUX.

After a Long Illness She Passes Away at Her Home in San Jose.

SAN JOSE, June 24.—Mrs. Lux, wife of Henry Lux, of Miller & Lux, who resides at the corner of Alameda Road and Jones street, East San Jose, passed away last evening after a lingering illness. Death was due to cancer of the stomach, from which she has been an acute sufferer since last October.

Mrs. Lux was a venerable pioneer of this State, having emigrated to the Golden West from New York in 1856. For the past thirty-seven years she has resided in this city, and in her wide circle of friends was known as a true, noble woman, sweet in disposition, pure hearted and generous. Though in no way unexpected, her passing is a source of the deepest regret to her many friends, as it removes from this earth one whose highest purpose it was to make her life that of a true Christian woman.

Mrs. Lux was a native of New York State and was 65 years, 10 months and 22 days old at the time of her death. Her husband survives her.

FOUND GOLD IN NORTH OAKLAND.

The residents of Linden street between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-sixth streets, have been thrown into a fever of excitement over the discovery of gold quartz in an artesian well that has just been bored on the premises of S. A. Nauman, a dairyman residing at 1714 Linden street.

One of the most remarkable features of the well is that when a depth of eleven feet was bored a strata of gravel that proved to be six feet thick was struck. Considerable quartz was brought up and some of such a quality containing streaks of gold that an effort was made to keep the matter quiet.

SIX HUNDRED GIVE THEIR ARMS TO UNCLE SAM

General Cailles Wept While His Men Surrendered to Our Officers.

INSURGENTS ARE OUT OF BUSINESS.

SANTA CRUZ, Province of Laguna, P. I., June 24.—Gen. Cailles surrendered today with 600 men and 500 rifles. He entered Santa Cruz to the music of native bands, which were drawn up in six lines in the church yard. Cailles and his staff entered the church, where mass was celebrated by Chaplain Hart of the Eighth United States Infantry.

Cailles Weeps at Surrender.

The column passed in review before the United States Army headquarters with arms at port, returned to the enclosure, where they surrendered their rifles and received receipts entitling them to 25 pesos each. All the receipts were deposited in the hands of Cailles and his officers. Cailles insisting that the arms were not being sold, but belonged to the revolutionary government and that the proceeds must go to the widows and orphans.

During the surrender of arms Cailles and his staff, who were outside the enclosure, wept. Tenders His Sword. The officers afterward walked to headquarters, where Cailles tendered his sword to General Sumner, who gallantly handed it back. General Sumner also handed back the revolutionists' flag, which Cailles will personally present to General MacArthur. General Sumner congratulated Cailles on his surrender, and the latter responded that it was a happy day for Laguna Province.

Placed in Irons.

The President of the Federalists in Laguna made a patriotic address to the former Filipino officers and then the latter and the rank and file of the Philippines took the oath of allegiance publicly on the Plaza. Frank McKin, who had been acting as a Lieutenant with the insurgents, and who surrendered today, was placed in irons.

PLAGUE SHIP AT SAN DIEGO.

Six Deaths Occurred on the Vessel on the Trip From Hong Kong.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Surgeon General Wyman, of the Marine Hospital Service today was informed by Dr. McKay, Quarantine officer at San Diego, of the arrival at that port of a plague-infected ship. The vessel is the British steamer Carlisle City which sailed from Hong Kong on May 16th, and coming via Yokohama and Honolulu, reached San Diego late last Saturday.

Dr. McKay reports that there were six deaths enroute, five of which were certainly caused by plague, and the sixth is supposed to have been. All the deaths but one were among members of the crew, the exception being a Chinese stevedore passenger.

Dr. McKay reports that all the others on board are in good health.

BLACKMAILER IS HELD AT BAY.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Gustav Behring, who soon after the death of George M. Pullman claimed he was a son by a former wife of the millionaire but failed to establish his claims, was arrested today in the office of Frank O. Lowden, in the Women's Temple Building, on the charge of attempting to extort money by force.

Mr. Lowden married Miss Florence Pullman, daughter of George M. Pullman. It is claimed that Behring demanded that Mr. Lowden give him $5,000 and $10,000 a month for six months, and when refused exclaimed: "Well, I will get the money." Judge H. D. Davis, the law partner of Mr. Lowden, drew a revolver and held Behring until the police arrived. Behring was unarmed and asserts he meant no harm.

LOST HIS WIFE AND NOW DISAPPEARS.

BERKELEY, June 24.—R. A. Danter, who, with his wife, conducted a candy store here and another one at 3044 O'Farrell street, San Francisco, has disappeared, leaving many creditors to mourn his departure. Danter's wife, a comely young woman who was engaged with him in the candy business, created a sensation about three weeks ago by eloping with Byron Morrow, a motorman, and now Danter's disappearance has led his creditors to believe that the elopement was simply a conspiracy to defraud them.

THE SHERIFF STANDS BY STRIKERS.

Does Not Like the Court's Injunction in the Great Coal Miners' Strike.

ARMED GUARDS ARE NOW ON THE SCENE.

MATTEWAN, W. Va., June 24.—No developments of a serious nature marked Sunday's situation at the scene of the strike in the Thacker-Mattewan coal field. At a secret caucus held at Thacker Sunday night it is understood that vigorous speeches were made by strikers in condemnation of Judge Jackson's sweeping injunction, but the conservatives were in the majority and no plan was mapped out looking to any trespass on its conditions.

However, the statement is made that the men at work, representing a small percentage of the 2,000 involved, would be pressed to unite with the strikers.

Government by Injunction.

While the injunction was made effective Friday the defendants in equity were not formally served until this morning. The service of summons met with no particular act of violence, although the officers were greeted with jeers and imprecations on "government by injunction." To add to the seriousness of the situation, Sheriff Hatfield and a force of picked men who reported for guard duty at the mines have refused to serve and returned to Williamson.

Sheriff Did Not Act.

To the Associated Press representative Deputy White said last night: "We declined to take a hand in the controversy because the demand of the operators that all intercourse between the strikers and the non-striker men be suspended was a manifestly unjust act. We agreed to preserve order, prevent interference of a violent nature and protect mining property, but beyond this we could not in fairness go."

The guards now on duty in the six colonies in the district are selected from the ranks of non-union men and number all told about 100, all armed.

Cause of Strike.

The operators maintain that the strike is due to the refusal of Superintendent Lambert of the Mattewan and Lick Fork mines to discharge a miner from the Elk-horn field, who defaulted to join the union on the ground that he already belonged to too many orders to justify him in the additional expense. The wage question does not figure, the wages paid averaging from $3 to $5 per day, being entirely satisfactory. Five hundred dollars a week in relief funds is coming into the field from the United Mine Workers of America.

CHANGING PLANS IN THE SHAMROCK.

GLASGOW, June 24.—The opportunity has been taken in re-sparring the Shamrock II to make several changes, notably in her main boom, which is an extremely light spar 10 1/2 feet long and 2 1/2 inches at its present diameter. Yet the steel plates with which it is bolted are only one-eighth of an inch in thickness. The spar is fitted on the inside with struts, while the main street struts and blocks are arranged in a novel fashion, designed to distribute the strain over a considerable length of the spar.

SYMPATHY OF A NATION FOR SEC. HAY.

Sudden Death of His Son Came as a Great Shock to the Family.

MESSAGES FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD.

NEW HAVEN, June 24.—The class of '99 of Yale University, of which Adelbert S. Hay was a member, today passed a resolution deploring his untimely death and expressing "appreciation of his noble character and admirable qualities." Two hundred members of the class who are here to attend their triennial reunion, the largest class reunion known in Yale's history, were present at the meeting. Frank E. Simmons of St. Louis presiding. The ball game which was to have been played by members of the class with a team representing the class of '97 and which was to have been a notable feature of commencement week festivities, has been given up.

A committee consisting of R. R. Hitt, son of Congressman Hitt of Illinois; Paine Whitney, son of ex-Secretary of the Navy W. C. Whitney of New York; Jas. T. Wadsworth, son of Congressman Wadsworth of Genesee, N. Y.; Robert Garrison of New York and Julian Starkweather Mason of Chicago will represent the class at the funeral. Mr. Hitt was a room mate of Adelbert Hay in college.

Early this afternoon it was announced that it was hoped that the family would be able to leave for Cleveland, Ohio, with the body on a train starting from here at 7:30 this evening. There was still some uncertainty about the coming of Mrs. Hay, and it was given out that she would perhaps not stop here, but would go direct to Cleveland. Her son Clarence and daughter Alice are with her. Telegrams of condolence from President McKinley, members of his Cabinet and many others reached Secretary Hay at the Moseley residence today.

SECRETARY HAY IS BETTER.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 24.—After passing a fairly restful night, Secretary Hay, who arrived last yesterday at the residence of Seth H. Moseley, where the body of his son lay, was stricken with physical collapse, was very much improved this morning.

At 9 o'clock he received a call from Dr. Gilbert, his physician. The doctor found Col. Hay so much better that he permitted him to sit up, and while dictating that he remain quiet in his room for the day, expressed the belief that he will be able to leave the city this evening, if necessary. Immediately after the departure of the physician, Secretary Hay arose and had breakfast in his room. No definite plans for the funeral will be fixed upon until the arrival of Mrs. Hay and her daughter, who are expected this afternoon from Newbury, N. H., their summer home. Meanwhile, however, arrangements are being made tentatively for departure with the body later in the day.

ST. LOUIS, June 24.—A report that a gasoline launch, the Charles Edmond, was sunk in a storm off Jefferson Barracks, 12 miles south of the city, last night, and that all on board, 25 persons, are believed to have been drowned, is being investigated by the police, to whose attention the story was brought shortly after noon today. It is said that the yacht was sighted off Jefferson Barracks at 7 o'clock Sunday. She was in distress and was heading toward shore. According to the information filed with the police, the Charles Edmond is a handsome gasoline craft owned by the Messrs. Charles and Edward Twitt of St. Louis. The boat was bought this spring in Chicago and is maintained by the Messrs. Twitt as a pleasure craft.

Sunday afternoon the boat was due to leave on a trip down the river and was expected to return at 6 o'clock. Twenty-five young men, all friends of the Messrs. Twitt, are said to have been invited to join the party. The boat left her moorings at the foot of Locust street at the appointed time and has not been heard of since the watchman of the City of Providence saw her at 7 o'clock Sunday evening.

BRANDES IS ELOQUENTLY DENOUNCED BY WALSH.

The Young Attorney Arraigns Him in Scathing Terms for the Murder of His Innocent Daughter—A Powerful Opening of the Case for the Prosecution in Which Evidence is Searchingly Analyzed.

"Suffer little children to come unto me," spoke the Savior. "This touching manifestation of divine affection for the little ones is the most terrible indictment that could be framed against this man who sits here with his hands stained with the blood of his innocent child, and whose blackened and blasted soul feels no remorse for that horrible and unnatural deed."

With uplifted hands Deputy District Attorney Philip M. Walsh spoke today to the jury in the Brandes case, his voice thrilling with impressive earnestness.

This morning he opened the argument for the prosecution in the case of W. A. Brandes, charged with the murder of his 14-year-old daughter Lillian. The previous conviction of Brandes was set aside by the Supreme Court on account of errors in the former trial.

During the trial, Walsh exhibited marked talent as a prosecutor. His task was made difficult because of the complete change of front on the part of the defense. In the former trial the attorneys for the defendant attempted to prove that the girl was not murdered but committed suicide, and placed their client on the stand to sustain their theory.

Judge Frick, who appeared for the defense in the second trial, made no effort to disprove the fact of murder, but adroitly shaped the testimony to give color to the theory that the girl was killed in a fight with her stepmother, and that Brandes acted as a mother in order to shield his wife. To sustain this theory the defendant was kept off the stand. Mrs. Brandes was called, but declined to answer on the ground that it might tend to incriminate herself. However, no direct testimony was introduced to show that the woman did really kill the unfortunate child, but a good deal was brought forward to prove that Brandes was not at his home between the hours during which the physicians said the girl received the fatal injuries.

Mr. Walsh's opening was a scathing arraignment of the prisoner's unnatural treatment of his motherless daughter. The claim of the defense that the father loved his child and treated her with tender kindness was stripped and torn by an able marshal in got parts of the testimony showing that he abused the girl, called her a liar and a thief and made her sleep in a dismal basement.

After calling attention to the manner in which Brandes had deceived the girl away from her home with her aunt with a falsehood, the attorney paid his respects to the witness Munsell, who, he said, had been "wafted from Ukiah to testify to the generous magnificence with which this defendant treated his daughter—this defendant who sits here with a marble face and eyes that see not. When this loving parent got the child home he did not take her in the house with the rest of the family, but put her to sleep in the basement, and then said she preferred to sleep there."

"The Richmonds testify to hearing the blows showered on his frail little daughter by this tender-hearted parent, and to hearing her piteous cry 'Oh, Al, don't beat me any more! Don't kill me!' The witness, now dead, testified to hearing between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning this tender-hearted father beating his child and her pleadings for mercy."

Then the attorney sketched the events leading up to the repeated beatings. How the girl was accused of stealing fifteen dollars from her father's bureau, the step-mother making the charge. After commenting on the fact that Mrs. Brandes and her son had access to the bureau, the attorney pointed out that Brandes threatened to beat her to death if she did not return the money. The pathetic attempt of the poor child to borrow a dollar from Harvey in order to appease her father's wrath; her denial of having stolen

the money from the bureau; the refusal of the father to allow her to eat supper with the other members of the family saying she was not fit to sit at the table were all dwelt upon, and attention was called to the testimony of the baker, Wright, that on the following morning he saw bruises on the girl's face.

"These were but additional marks of the affection lavished on his daughter by this tender-hearted parent. Is it not confirmatory proof that the innocent child was again beaten because she was unable to find the money said to have been stolen? Picture this poor child scratching around in the stable in the vain effort to find the missing articles that she might turn aside the fierce wrath of this tender and loving father. All the events come in sequence, showing the motive for this atrocious crime, the merciless disposition of the cruel father, and the various acts that culminated in the foul murder of this child."

"That veteran witness, the son of this defendant, who was between 10 and 11 years old when this occurred, was put on the stand to testify to a terrible encounter between Mrs. Brandes and the child Lillian. He told a story of a direct conflict—Mrs. Brandes armed with a poker and Lillian with a knife. Mrs. Brandes is a woman in the prime of life, strong and full of bodily vigor. Yet, according to this boy's story, this frail little girl, four feet ten inches in height, and weighing ninety pounds, wrestled her mother from her hands and gave her a beating with it. But to account for the bruises on the girl's head he said his mother struck her over the head with the poker. All this is simply a cunningly devised tale to cast the infamy of this most horrible crime upon the woman to shield this man who brutally did his dutyless child to death in the still watches of the night, who dragged her from her bed, in the home which should have been her haven of refuge from sorrow and ill usage, and struck out her young life with blows that would have shattered the maddened rage of a wild beast."

"The story is incredible. No such struggle happened. It was physically impossible for this weak girl to have overpowered her strong, healthy stepmother in the manner described. It is a story that is disproved by all the circumstances and refuted by the testimony of the other witnesses in the case. One witness testified that Mrs. Brandes had once snatched a bottle of poison from the hands of this child, but to no acts of unkindness on her part. Harvey's evidence shows that Mrs. Brandes did treat the child unkindly, but that it was the unusual behavior of this tender-hearted parent that drove Lillian Brandes to desperation and finally encouraged her to death."

"To this heinous crime is added the iniquity of having this boy to relate a false and impossible story to shift the guilt from his own perpetrator to the shoulders of his own mother. No father, a tender-hearted parent is this you have before you, who sits unmoved during the recital of incidents which would make the hardened to tears, and unabashed by the revelation of atrocious brutality on his part that would disgrace the records of the field."

In impressive tones Mr. Walsh pointed out that the defendant had given a false account of his movements on the day and night prior to the girl's death. He spoke of the cold blooded and methodical way in which the defendant acted on the day of his daughter's death, and the conflicting statements he made about sending her away, and the peculiarity of his movements on the morning of the murder. "He said," continued Walsh, "that he came to Oakland to get a cloak. We know that he did not. He said that he returned to his home at 5:30 Saturday morning. This is disproved by the evidence. At the former trial he testified that he made his rounds Friday night on foot. The evidence in this case shows the story to have been false. He denied that Lillian was his daughter, and declared that she was only an adopted child. He manifested no more emotion at her death than if she had been an utter stranger. Why were these false stories told? Was his conduct that of a tender-hearted parent? "The only explanation of his conduct is the one that the evidence irresistibly points to, and every circumstance indicates—that he went to his home Saturday morning, pulled that child out of her bed and showered blows on her head and shoulders till they caused death. He had done it before, and the child's words and actions showed that she was in mortal terror of her father's wrath. His threats and his beatings showed her what she had to expect at the hands of this tender-hearted parent. Could she not exclaim in her agony with the crucified Christ, 'My God! Why hast Thou forsaken me?'"

"Why was the defendant so anxious to have everything hushed up and the body put away as quickly as possible? Why did he deny that he was her father, and why did he ask that nothing be said about the child? The child was found hanging to a bedpost. She did not kill herself. The evidence shows that she was killed by blows on the head. Who hung her to that bedpost? She was tied to it in the hope of concealing a most horrible crime which all the testimony would never have deliberately strangled herself to death to that bedpost."

"The cold-blooded inhumanity of this man is shown by his performance of certain delicate services in preparing the body for burial that only a parent bereft of all sentiment of human affection could perform. The recital of it is enough to make the blood run cold. It is but another evidence of his utter heartlessness and his desire to cover up the evidence of his atrocious villainy."

During the delivery of this awful philippic, Brandes sat apparently the most unrepentant person in the room. Not a hint of color came into his bloodless cheeks, and he kept his eyes fixed on the eloquent young prosecutor with a cold, calculating interest that indicated wonderful self-control. Walsh was continuing his argument when the noon recess was taken.

ON TRIAL FOR TREASON.

Marquis de Lur-Saluces Faces the High Court of Justice Today.

PARIS, June 24.—The Senate assembled this afternoon in its capacity of a high court of justice to try the Marquis de Lur-Saluces, the well known royalist and former member of the Chamber of Deputies, who returned unexpectedly to Paris about the middle of May, after having been condemned in January, 1900, in default of appearance, to ten years' banishment from France for treason.

The President of the Senate, M. Fallieres, presided. The Marquis, escorted by two guards, appeared at the bar of the House to answer the charge of complicity in the crimes of high treason and attempts against the safety of the State, for which Mm. de Roziere, Buffet, Marcel-Habert and Gaurin were condemned. There was no excitement in the vicinity of the Palace, where the Senate holds its sittings, as was the case in the earlier trial of the Marquis and the others mentioned.

he has been the attorney for the brewers in certain suits.

Control of Legislature. The control of the Legislature is of unusual importance this year as the next general assembly apportions the State under the census of 1900 for legislative representation as well as other purposes. It also selects the successor of Senator Foraker, and as he is considered the leader in the coming campaign, much interest was taken today in his key-note speech, as temporary chairman of the convention. It is understood that Senator Hanna will preside over the convention tomorrow, when he will address the convention.

Will Endorse McKinley. While the platform will endorse the administration of President McKinley and Governor Nash strongly, it is said that Senators Foraker and Hanna will be consulted on the declarations on national issues and Governor Nash on State issues. The only issue causing any difference of opinion is that of local option.

The delegates met at 2 p. m. by Congressional districts to select members of the committees on credentials, rules and order of business, etc., which will be reported to the convention when it convenes at 4 p. m.

Convention Adjourns. The convention was called to order shortly after 10 o'clock by Peter V. Durr, of Cincinnati, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee. Prayer was offered by Rev. W. N. Gooder. After reviewing the last campaign in Ohio and calling attention to the importance of the coming contest, Mr. Durr introduced Senator J. B. Foraker as the temporary chairman of the convention. Oration had been given by Foraker, Hanna, Nash, Bushnell, Foster and other leaders as they entered the hall, but at this juncture Senator Foraker was greeted with greater demonstrations than ever.

After the appointment of the committees on credentials, resolutions, etc., it was announced that these committees would meet tonight and have their reports ready for the convention at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

HOW GALDSTONE WON HIS CASE.

Herbert Gladstone, a young employee at the gas works, possesses at least some of the characteristics of the immortal English statesman. He believes in investigation. He was arrested this morning while riding to the works on his bicycle. Policeman Moore, dressed in citizens' clothes, and also riding a bicycle, passed a man on the sidewalk. The policeman was a block away at the time but he overtook the rider. In the Police Court Gladstone pleaded not guilty and was tried by Acting Police Judge Quinn.

After the policeman had testified to the circumstances of the arrest, Gladstone took the stand. He said: "I was on my way to work and do not remember passing a man on the sidewalk. When arrested I told the officer so, and he said I had passed a newsboy on Grove, near Twenty-first street. I said, 'Well, let's go back and ask him if I passed him.' 'I have no time,' replied Mr. Moore. 'Well, neither have I, but we might make some time,' I said. So we went back and the boy stated that he did not see me pass him on the sidewalk."

Judge Quinn suspended sentence.

RICH ESTATE OF JUDGE BOALT.

The will of the late Judge John H. Boalt, formerly a member of the law firm of Garber, Boalt and Bishop, was admitted to probate this morning by Judge Ellsworth and letters testamentary granted to his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Boalt.

The estate is valued at between $200,000 and $250,000. It consists of about $100,000 worth of realty in different parts of the State, and stock, bonds, notes, mortgages and personal property. The will is holographic. The entire estate is left to the widow. The only other heir is a grandchild, Alice Boalt Tevis, daughter of the late Hugh Tevis. Although no direct provision is made for the grandchild, she is left to the care of Mrs. Boalt. The testator states in his will that he has no other heirs, but that if it is determined by a court that he has such heirs, they are to receive the sum of $5 each. Attorney Charles Wheeler represented Mrs. Boalt in court.

OVER-ZEALOUS OFFICIALS.

In San Francisco the other day a little girl was arrested by the over-zealous agents of a humane society because she was trying to earn bread for her invalid parents by selling newspapers. The officials, for their wanton and misdirected abuse of power, received a severe set-back in the courts and from the public journals, and it is probable that they will be more discreet in future. But now comes from New York a story which indicates that they are as little regardful of justice there as the so-called "humane" officers were across the bay. Says the World, in its summary of the case:

"When his father died and his mother was sent up for drunkenness, Little Joe Phillips took charge of himself and his tiny sisters. He became a good father and a good mother, a good bread-winner and a model housekeeper and nurse. His is one of the splendid, touching instances of real heroism. For this crime he is sent to a reformatory to be educated among young crooks and incorrigibles."

Such authenticated instances of the despotic methods of organizations that are only semi-public in their management suggest that steps should be taken to put their agents more directly under the control of municipalities and of the regular police. The fact that the number of children under their care is considered in the appointment of State aid to the humane institutions and is expected—many of them could not exist without it—should give the general body of taxpayers a right to voice in their management and in the appointment of the agents who are now absolutely irresponsible as far as the public is concerned. It is a dangerous policy to allow unrestricted invasion of the parental prerogatives, but the practice is becoming too common.

The Fourth of July will in years to come be as eventful an anniversary in the Philippines as it is in the United States, for the Presidential proclamation inaugurating civil rule there upon that day marks the commencement of a new and promising epoch for the islands. Wonder how Atkinson and his fellow-traitors of the Boston league feel now-a-days; as they have not been heard of since their ally Aguinaldo surrendered, it is to be presumed that they have accomplished that celebrated feat of crawling into a hole and pulling the hole in after them.

The State Board of Architecture has organized. It ought to prove a good drawing card for the administration, for the members of the profession it is created to protect are glad that at least incompetents and fakirs will be drummed out of the business.

It was 110 in the shade at Arizona one day last week. The principal trouble, too, down that way is that there is no shade.

RAILROAD COLONIZATION.

No more powerful colonization agents have ever been known than the great railroads of this country. They have virtually populated the West and without them much of the territory that is now divided up into prosperous States would still be a wilderness. For several years the transportation corporations have lessened their efforts in this direction, their time and resources being needed in the wars for one another's control. Now, however, there is evidence that they are about to resume their former activity, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe being the first to make its announcements.

This company has organized a vast colonization plan, by which it is proposed to bring to this country from Italy thousands of thrifty farmers, settle them in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and the San Joaquin Valley, California, and thus build up territory from whence to draw increased traffic in the future, increasing in this manner the railway's own revenues in a perfectly legitimate way. No inefficient men are to be among the immigrants—only men and women who by their industry in the places of their birth have shown their ability to take care of themselves and to become good citizens in the land to which they are coming.

These are the citizens that California wants. That the men and women from the Italian States are industrious and valuable adjuncts to any community has been demonstrated in many parts of the State. They till the soil, avoid the congested cities, and, in such counties as Marin and San Mateo, form the mainstay of the local government. If the Santa Fe does no more than to bring so welcome an addition to this State it will have proved itself a benefactor. But there should be no misunderstanding about the class of immigrants—let the railway keep to its bond. Farmers are what we want—young men with some little means of their own, who will bring their families and make this their home and their country, and who while retaining a tender memory of the land of their nativity, will yet be content to live here for the rest of their lives as good Americans. We want none of the riff-raff that is being dumped into New York by the steamship companies operating on that side of the continent.

Chicago is going to enlarge its telephone service as a result of the new deal that took President Sabin there. That's not surprising—they like to hear themselves talk in the Windy City.

Now they are going to consolidate the cotton seed industry. The trust promoters are evidently determined to be on the inside as regards that particular product.

REV. BROWN TELLS OAKLAND PEOPLE OF RELIGION IN COUNTRY.

Pastor of the First Congregational Church Tells of His Observations.
Weddings and Social Events Announced for the Week—Personal Mention.

Rev. Charles R. Brown, pastor of the First Congregational Church, who has just returned from the East, spoke last evening on the subject: "Some Observations on Religious Conditions in the East." He spoke in part as follows:

"It is my desire this evening to speak informally and in a direct manner in regard to a few of the things which I noticed in the East. I find that it does a minister a great deal of good to become a layman once in a while and actually walk into a church with the full realization that one is to be simply a listener. In fact, this plan works so well in regard to ministers that I have come to the conclusion that it would be well for the layman to preach once in a while and give the minister a chance to listen. It would be productive of much good."

"I was in New York two Sundays, both of which days I had the chance of which I have just spoken. Everywhere I went in the great city I was impressed with the sturdy, rich life which was everywhere flowing in the business streets and in the churches. It is indeed a place where the very best is wanted, and that alone."

Mr. Brown then described several of the churches which he visited and the manner of men he found in the pulpits. Only three denominations in the great city have a wide influence, and those are the Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Reformed Dutch. The other denominations in the metropolis are weak and of small membership.

"Of the general religious tendencies which I witnessed," said the preacher, "there were several of very marked influence. I believe above all things that there is a growing recognition of the necessity of religion in the great Eastern cities. Men have found that they cannot get along without it; not that they do not know right from wrong, but that something more than mere will power is needed to lead them on. In the pure, simple Gospel of Jesus Christ is a dynamic force which lifts men above themselves and carries them on to higher ideals, and above all to great faith in God. It is this that has been found necessary, and men are beginning to come in and fulfill the need."

"On the part of all men there is a growing interest in the economic questions of the day? If men are crushed to the earth so that others can enjoy their labor it is felt that the economic question is not a matter of theory, but that something more than mere will power is needed to lead them on. In the pure, simple Gospel of Jesus Christ is a dynamic force which lifts men above themselves and carries them on to higher ideals, and above all to great faith in God. It is this that has been found necessary, and men are beginning to come in and fulfill the need."

"The methods of religious work are largely educational," said the preacher, "the brain, tending to the development of the entire man and his personality. If a boy is sent to school, not merely his brain, but the whole body is taken care of, and that is the way in which the workers have taken hold of the problem. They contend that not only the body, but the mind should be trained in the way of right doing, but all his instincts and habits as well. It is with this purpose that the churches have become the nucleus of the life which whirled about them in the great city."

OAKLAND TEAM WINS A GAME BY DEFAULT.

Yesterday morning's baseball game went to Oakland by default owing to a dispute in the fifth inning. Whalen of the San Francisco team refused to accept a decision of Umpire Tyler and was ordered off the field. As San Francisco had no other pitcher, the game was stopped. The score was 2 to 1 in favor of Oakland, but the official score will stand 9 to 0 owing to the default. In the afternoon San Francisco was victorious by a score of 6 to 5.

Los Angeles defeated Sacramento by a score of 5 to 1. San Francisco defeated Oakland Saturday by a score of 6 to 5.

WANTS HUSBAND TO SUPPORT HIS CHILD.

Theodore Lange, the butcher, has been cited to appear before Judge Ellsworth and show cause, if he has any, why he should not be compelled to pay $25 a month for the support of his 13-year-old daughter. The citation was issued on the petition of Mrs. Elizabeth Lange, the mother.

Mrs. Lange secured a divorce from her husband about a year ago on the ground of extreme cruelty. The testimony was to the effect that Lange had struck his wife with his fist and that he had choked her. The couple were married in 1886. When the divorce was granted, no provision was made for the support of their child. Ben B. Haskell is Mrs. Lange's attorney.

It's Worse For a Woman
To suffer with skin disease than it is for a man for a smooth skin and a clear complexion are essential elements of female beauty. When the taint of scrofula is in the blood it will be sure to show itself soon or late. Often its manifestations are as repulsive as they are painful. Many people have been cured of scrofula in its most malignant forms by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This remedy is remarkable for its power to purify the blood. It absolutely eliminates the corrupting elements. It makes the blood clean and rich. It increases the action of the blood-making glands, and so increases the quantity of pure blood supplied to the body.

"I will forever thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. J. S. Murphy of Fond du Lac, Wis. "It has cured me of chronic scrofula, of twelve years' standing. I had doctor for the trouble until I was completely discouraged. I also had chronic diarrhea for twelve years. I am in good health now—better than I ever was in my life, owing to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took several bottles of the 'Discovery' before I stopped."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a work for every woman, is sent free, on receipt of an old cent stamp (to pay cost of mailing only), for paper edition. Cloth-bound, at stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

EDNA WALLACE AT SAN LEANDRO
Noted Actress Arrives in Town to Attend Funeral of Her Mother.

Mrs. Josephine Dunsmeir died Saturday last of typhoid fever at her late home on the Southern farm near San Leandro. She had been ill for only a week.

The deceased was the widow of the late Alexander Dunsmeir one of the members of the well known family of Dunsmeirs, who, for years, have been working the coal mines of British Columbia, and who died about a year ago. Mrs. Dunsmeir was formerly the wife of Walter Wallace, head usher of the old California Theater, San Francisco, in the days of the stock company under John McCullough and Lawrence Barrett. The Wallaces eventually separated, and the wife retained custody of the daughter, Edna. Later Mrs. Wallace and Edna removed to East Oakland. About two years ago, shortly before Alexander Dunsmeir's death in the East, it was publicly announced that he had secretly married Mrs. Wallace some years previously.

The daughter of the deceased, engaged the stage, became distinguished as a comedienne and subsequently she became the wife of Dr. Wolf Hopper the comedian. She was, however, divorced from him a couple of years ago.

When her mother's illness took a serious turn, the daughter was telegraphed to and immediately canceled a professional engagement and left for her home. She arrived in this city and was immediately driven to the country home beyond San Leandro.

No announcement of the funeral has yet been made.

STARTLING STORY TOLD BY ASSESSMENT ROLLS.

According to Assessor Dalton the people of Alameda County Are Growing Poorer Year by Year, and the More Property They Accumulate the Less it is Worth.

A TALE OF ASSESSMENTS.
The per capita assessment for Alameda county was in 1890 $837
1900 669
The per capita assessment of Oakland was in 1891 $878
1900 630
Assessor Dalton says an injustice has been done him because THE TRIBUNE stated that he had assessed Alameda county in 1897 for $98,770,427, when it was in 1896 that he assessed the county at that figure.
The error is both inadvertent and immaterial. The point is that several years ago Mr. Dalton assessed the county for $98,770,427, and in 1900 assessed it for nearly $12,000,000 less. Whether the high assessment was made in 1896 or 1897 is not very material, save that placing it in the earlier year makes the showing even worse for the Assessor. However, Mr. Dalton is entitled to have it stated that it was in 1896 that he assessed the county for $98,770,427.
But he says the assessment for 1897 was $82,948,726. According to the official statement of the County Auditor, from which these figures are taken, the assessment for 1897 was $85,224,030. This also is immaterial, although Mr. Dalton will hardly accuse the Auditor of misrepresenting him in his official reports.
Why did the assessment fall off $12,446,397 from 1896 to 1897? According to Mr. Dalton it fell off $15,421,701. The years 1895 and 1896 were panic years. Everybody remembers the hard times and low prices of that period. Everybody knows that times began to mend immediately after November, 1896, and that prosperous business conditions set in early in the year 1897, and have steadily grown more prosperous since. Why should Alameda county grow poorer during the prosperous period than it was during the panic cycle? Has it actually done so? There are more people, more business, more buildings and other improvements. Produce and livestock

MORE PAY AND LESS HOURS.
Engineers Hold a Meeting and Decide on a Schedule of Wages.

The Stationary Engineer's Union held a meeting at Becker's Hall last Saturday evening and for the first time adopted a regular time and wage schedule. The scale of wages decided upon is as follows: For stationary engineers a minimum rate of $3 per day for nine hours, and time and a half for additional time; engineers who work by the week, $20 per week; engineers who work by the month, a minimum salary of $30 per month. In the latter case the day shall consist of ten hours. Overtime shall be paid for at the same rate as in the case of day labor. Holding engineers shall be paid at the rate of 55 cents per hour for the time between 7 A. M. and 5 P. M. They shall receive half pay while keeping steam up, overtime shall be charged when the engineer works on Sunday or after the hour of 5 P. M. and before 7 A. M. For overtime and for working on national holidays they shall be paid at the rate of $1 per hour.
The annual election of officers will be held next Saturday evening. At present there are 105 members of the union, and Secretary G. E. Mages states that he has twenty more applications. There were ten initiations at the last meeting.

WEST OAKLAND BOYS EAT PIE.
All the Lads at the West End Have Great Vacation Feast.

Young America had an inning in West Oakland this morning, when a horse attached to one of the pie wagons of Simpkins & Thorpe collided with a Seventh street local train.
Pies, custard, lemon, cranberry and apple, were scattered for a distance of two blocks, and there is hardly a school boy in West Oakland today who isn't suffering with a severe case of colic.
The horse and pie wagon were standing at Seventh and Wood streets, and when the 10 o'clock local came along the animal became frightened. It veered around, crossing the track in front of the approaching locomotive, which struck the wagon, overturning it and scattering the pies like a seed sower scatters wheat. Two wheels were taken off the wagon and its bed was demolished.
The horse ran on up Wood street and the train crew, passengers and residents of that neighborhood enjoyed a rare feast. The accident drew a large crowd to the scene.

W. D. HEITMANN IS ON TRAIL OF THE CHINESE.

Number of New Arrivals Are Booked for the Orchards of Alameda County.

NEWS NOTES ALONG THE WATER FRONT.

The steamer China arrived in San Francisco Saturday with 499 Chinese passengers, many of whom intend to come to Oakland to work in the orchards of Alameda county. The work of examining the Chinese under the exclusion act was begun today, but it will be several days before they are all examined.
William Heitmann, former president of the Oakland City Council and now a deputy in the Chinese Department of the National Government, states that many of those who arrived on the China are suspected of not having been in this country before, and if so, they will be sent back to China. It is claimed that the Chinese bosses in the fruit orchards around Hayward and Livermore sent back to China early in the year for laborers, believing that the fruit crop would be unusually large and that they would be short of help. As a consequence it is said there are about fifty Chinese aboard the steamer China who cannot legally enter this country, and they will not be allowed to land.

An Old Schooner.

The schooner Eros has been placed upon the ways to have her bottom scraped and to be furnished with a new copper bottom. The Eros is an historical vessel. She was built in 1860 and plied between Charleston, S. C., and the West Indies. In 1863 she was engaged in smuggling arms to Confederate forces, making two trips from England to South Carolina with arms and ammunition.
On the second trip she was captured by Commodore Farragut's flagship and during the remainder of the war she was used by the Union navy, for a part of the time as a transport for wounded soldiers, and later as a hospital ship.
Since the war the Eros has been reconstructed several times, and it is said that hardly one of the original timbers remains. Of late years she has been engaged in the coast lumber trade. She is a queer looking craft, being of longer range and greater depth of hold than vessels are built now-a-days. She is a two-masted schooner, 120 feet long.

Last week was a quiet one along the water front, there being very little doing in the shipyards and shipping being very light. At the shipyards of W. A. Boole & Son the employees are working on the keel of the new barkentine, which will be a companion to the Lahaina, which was recently launched and which left last week for San Francisco to take on ballast for her maiden trip to Puget Sound. At the Sound the Lahaina will take on a cargo of lumber for Shanghai, China. The Wahawon is still incomplete, owing to the iron workers' strike.
No new work has been commenced at either Hay & Wright's or Dickey's shipyards. At the former place the Mary Sachs, the schooner which recently returned from a scientific expedition to the South Sea Islands, has been placed upon the ways to be supplied with a copper bottom.

AN OAKLAND BOY DROWNED AT BENICIA.

Henry S. Sherry Loses His Life While Out for a Pleasure Ride.

YOUNG LADY WITH HIM IS DROWNED.

A yachting trip in the bay at Benicia last evening resulted fatally to Henry S. Sherry of this city and Miss Mamie Sullivan of San Francisco. By the most accident two young women, Kate and Aggie Kearns, escaped the same fate. As it was, they were so exhausted upon their rescue that some time elapsed before they could give a coherent account of the catastrophe.
The night was bright with moonlight, and Sherry and the three young ladies decided to take a ride on the bay. They secured a small boat, and when a short distance from the shore, in making a tack, the boat was capsized. Sherry and Miss Sullivan were swept away by a strong current, and drowned. The Kearns girls managed to reach the overturned craft and held on for two hours, when they were picked up by John Gordon off Dillon's Point.
Sherry was a native of Oakland, 21 years old, and a brother of Hollister Jack Sherry of this city. He had been employed for the last year as a telegraph operator by the Southern Pacific Company at Benicia. Besides his brother, he leaves a mother and several sisters, all of whom reside in Oakland. He was a very popular young man and leaves a host of friends, both here and in Benicia. Miss Sullivan was 18 years old and the daughter of Michael Sullivan, a San Francisco restaurateur.
The bodies have not yet been recovered.

CRAZED BY DRINK TAKES HIS LIFE.
Ex-Soldier Edward Slattery Is Dead and His Friend Is in Jail.

A bullet from a 38-calibre Smith & Wesson revolver, ended the three weeks' debauch of Edward Slattery, a discharged soldier, who served in the Philippines as a member of Company C, Fourth United States Infantry. As a soldier he was known only as Edwin Kelly.
Slattery, with another ex-soldier, John C. Daley, came over from San Francisco last Saturday evening, and engaged a room at the Avenue House, on San Pablo avenue. Both were recovering from a debauch, and while Daley laid on the bed to rest, so the latter claims, Slattery sat in a chair for awhile. Daley says he was aroused by a pistol shot. He found his companion with a bullet hole in his head, and after picking up the revolver and placing it on a table, Daley went out to get assistance. To Mrs. L. W. Denison, who conducts the Avenue House, he shouted excitedly: "My friend has killed himself."
The police and the coroner were immediately notified. The body of the dead soldier was removed to the Morgue, while Daley was placed in a cell at the City Prison, pending a thorough investigation.
Chief of Police Hodgkins says he does not believe that Daley was in any way responsible for Slattery's death, and is holding him only as a witness for the inquest.
His friend's suicide together with the effects of the debauch has very nearly unbalanced Daley's mind. He says he and Slattery were the best of friends; both were honorably discharged from the Fourth United States Infantry on May 31st. He left with $293; and Slattery received $275 and since then neither has been sober. "I was lying on the bed, dosing, and when I heard the shot, I jumped, placed the gun on the table and ran and called for help."
The men had been previously lodging at No. 14 Mason street, San Francisco, and the landlady there corroborates the story that the men were the best of friends but that both appeared drunk-crazed. Slattery was formerly a telegraph lineman, while Daley is a blacksmith. The inquest will be held this evening.
